What is Healing in Community?

A group of diverse caregivers—family, friends, health care practitioners, researchers, insurance providers, related social service and public agencies, spiritual advisors and the surrounding community—organizes into an optimally functioning system of compassionate, integrative care. Communication flows and creative collaborations flourish.

Healing in Community Online™ —

An integrated, Web-based survival kit for families of children with life threatening conditions that informs, supports and enables families to harness the power of community to address all of their needs—physical, emotional, financial, social, cultural and spiritual.
